

1. Mucus and cilia, coughing and sneezing, vomiting and diarrhea, and the movement of bodily fluids are all examples of:

- A. anatomical barriers.
- B. bacterial antagonism.
- C. mechanical removal.

2. Normal body flora keeping potentially harmful opportunistic pathogens in check, as well as inhibiting the colonization of pathogens, is called:

A. anatomical barriers.

B. bacterial antagonism.

C. mechanical removal.

3. Which of the following is not an example of an antigen-nonspecific antimicrobial molecule produced by the body?

- A. human defensins
- B. lysozyme
- C. hydrochloric acid
- D. antibodies